CAC-LOOKING FOR NEW MEMBERS

July 3, 2012 by cpehrson

The CPD's Consumer Advisory Council is currently seeking a new family representative member. At their recent bi-annual meeting in June, it was announced that two current members would soon be leaving.

Shannon Howard will be leaving as a family representative, and the youngest CAC member, Ben Ballam, announced that he would be going on a mission to Hawaii for two years. Ben's place will be held while he serves his mission.

The CAC is now looking for a replacement family representative who can bring their perspectives, ideas, and views to the council. Interested persons can contact Gordon Richins, CPD Consumer Liaison.

In the words of our CPD Director, Bryce Fifield, "The input and perspective of people with disabilities is critical to our success. We cannot be effective without your help in setting priorities. Participating on the CPD's Consumer Advisory Council helps us and it helps you. You will meet new people, work with fellow advocates, and help us make a difference in every Utah community!"
